IS BEING CRITICIZED

Friends of Army Officers Resent Suggestion That They Cannot Ride.

> Times-Dispatch Bureau, Munsey Building, Washington, D. C., Oct. 16,

Washington he will be informed that been having their pictures in the papers and the magazines with wonderful stories about their horsemanship, at the same time they are not merely the "desk solders" that some high officials seemed to think they were. There were several Virginia officers who were assigned to the duty of showing the President that they knew a thing or two yet about riding, one of them being Major McCaw, of the medical served and the managers brought to trial, or two yet about riding, one of them being Major McCaw, of the medical being Major McCaw, of the medical department.

While many people in official Washington are glad that the officers had a chance to prove that they are not wanting in horsemanship, there is yet a good deal of criticism privately heard against the order and the natural inference therefrom that the officers of the arms, have forces of the arms, but officers of the arms, have forces of the arms, have forces of the arms, have forces of the arms. ural interence therefrom that the offi-cers of the army have forgotten how to ride. It was remarked to-day that the soldiers are not in the habit of advertising their horsemanship in the newspapers and magazines, but that that gives no one the right to infer that they have lost the art.

CORTELYOU BUSY An Evening of Fun

Third Term Boom Is Being Dillgently Pressed by the Secretary.

SUGGEST SELFISH MOTIVE

Mr. Cortelyou May Land Nomination if President Refuses.

to Stand.

Times-Dispatch Bureau,
Munsey Building,
Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.
The Taft forces are in consternatios, over the way things are drifting in the couthorn and far Western States. They The Taft forces are in consternation over the way things are drifting in the Southorn and far Western States. They have been hoping that this unrelenting third-term boom would at the projer moment be turned to their advantage. But they have come to a realization of the fact that it is being used to their disadvantage. They have discovered that the power behind the third-term movement is none other than George B. Corfelyou, and that he is using all the patronage of the Treasury Department and the Post-Office Department to promote it. They have discovered also a big "negro in the woodpile." Cortelyou is having John G. Capers and Frank H. Hitchcock and others to go about working up third-term sentiment. They want Mr. Roosevelt renominated. But in the event that he adheres to his declarations not to accept the nomination again, it is the purpose to turn that strength to Cortelyou himself. Ask any third-term politician what they are going to do in the event that Roosevelt will refuse the place, they reply that they do not think that he will, but that if he does that is a bridge they will cross when they come to it. Not one of them will admit that they have a second choice, and none of them will admit that they have a second choice, and none of them will admit that they have a second choice, and that he is still-hunting for delegates so pledged.

Since they have gotten down to brass tacks the Taft people have begun to realize the meaning of what happened to the Brownlow faction in Tennessee only a few months ago. Although Sécretary Taft pleaded with the President to stand by the Brownlow crowd, saying that they were his friends and the other fellows were not, it was of no avail, and the Evens-Sanders crowd, admittedly third-termers, were recog-alarmed, and when the Freshent gets back there are going to be some pretty strong representations made to him by the Taft people. They are already a little sore on him because he has not said some things they wanted him to say. They declare that he was instrumental in getting Mr. Taft into the field, and that if he does not come to the rescue of the big secretary after he hears what the mice have been doing while the cat has been away, no other construction can be put upon his actions than that he has been a party to the little political game that has been worked against Mr. Taft.

The Taft people are just beginning to see what some others have seen for months. In fact, there is heard on every hand the assertion that the President is not toting fair with Mr. Taft, but is playing politics at his expense.

BODY BURNED TO BITS.

put to the test for horsemanship were equal to the occasion, and if it were not that teiling the whole truth might not be expedient he would be told that they ride just about as well as he does himself, and he thinks himself something of a rider.

It is the opinion of many who have seen the reports from the riding tests that the officers have acquitted themselves in excellent shape. It is true that they have not done much high jumping, and it is also true that none of them will write magazine articles about how they did it, and how well, but they have at least shown the President that while they have not been having their pictures in the parents.
